Dear Sir or Madam,

Recently, we had the pleasure of welcoming Jill Kryston, owner of “Defining Manners” to our fourth grade classrooms. As educators, we are always searching for ways to enhance the curriculum and diversify the experiences of our students. We invited Jill to speak with our students about proper etiquette and manners, both in a school setting and in various other social situations.

Jill was charming while reviewing the information and provided the students with priceless knowledge. She presented several different scenarios and demonstrated proper etiquette for each. Students were then able to interact with one another to refine their etiquette and manners.

As both parents and teachers, we strongly feel that Jill provides an invaluable service to our community. The children entrusted to us are our future, and it is our joint responsibility to make sure that they are empowered with all the necessary tools for living in society. At St. Nicholas – St. Mary, our school motto is “Where Good Beginnings Last a Lifetime”. Jill has demonstrated that proper etiquette and good manners are a crucial part of the educational foundation that we strive to establish for all students.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Jennifer Jones
